

Signage

A signage customers can see through town, showing where the store is when passing through other establishments. The red being prioritized in the design catches the attention of the customers, alerting them to the store.